

Behavior Style Survey

- The purpose of this survey is to help you identify your behavior style.
- Once you have identified your style, you will discover the styles of others and practice communicating with individuals of different styles

Behavior Style Survey

Understand that:

- this is not a test - there is no right answer
- there is no best style - each style has strengths and weaknesses
- this is not a measure of personality, intelligence, or emotional well-being

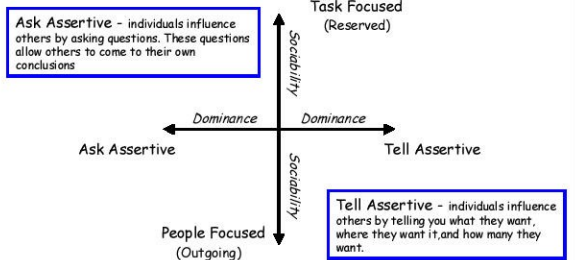

Behavior Style Survey

- A person's interpersonal style can be classified on two dimensions: dominance and sociability
- Dominance refers to the amount of control and forcefulness you attempt to exert over people and situations
- Sociability refers to your willingness to express emotions and focus on either people or tasks

Behavior Style Survey

Dominance and Sociability Scales

Behavior Style Survey

- The tendency to be "task focused" combined with the tendency to be "ask assertive" is the style of the analytical
- Analytical behavior is oriented towards thinking things through and being right
- Analyticals focus on facts more than feelings
- They evaluate situations objectively
- They prefer organized work environments

Behavior Style Survey

- The tendency to be "task focused" combined with the tendency to be "tell assertive" is the style of the driver
- The driver's behavior is oriented towards winning and acts decisive and in control
- Drivers know where they want to go and how they are going to get there
- They are good at managing tasks and are results oriented
- They like competitions and want to win

Behavior Style Survey

- The tendency to be "people focused" combined with the tendency to be "tell assertive" is the style of the expressive
- Expressive behavior is oriented towards being intuitive, creative, and humorous
- Expressive are outgoing, enthusiastic, and friendly
- They prefer to work with other people
- They want to be acknowledged, not ignored

Behavior Style Survey

- The tendency to be "people focused" combined with the tendency to be "ask assertive" is the style of the amiable
- Amiable behavior is oriented towards having relationships, pleasing others, and have security
- Amiables are responsive and friendly
- They want you to respect them and value them
- They prefer organized work environments

Behavior Style Survey

- There is no right or wrong behavior style
- People from all four four styles can be successful
- Just because drivers and analyticals are focused on tasks, does not mean that they do not care about people.
- Just because expressives and amiables are focused on building relationships, does not mean they do not care about getting the job done.

The Four Behavior Styles

Behavior Style Survey

When extremes and their opposites interact, there is a great potential for misunderstanding

Behavior Style Survey

When extremes and their opposites interact, there is a great potential for misunderstanding

Behavior Style Survey

- Because extremes and their opposites do not share any of the same qualities, this can lead to blind spots
- To be successful and make others feel comfortable, it is critical to identify what ever blind spot we have

Behavior Style Survey

- When dealing with others, it is not your style that is important - it is the style of the people you are attempting to communicate with that is important
